

Trust & Safety Research Conference 2023

Multistakeholder Content Governance in South Korea

Inyoung Cheong* (University of Washington)
Pardis Emami-Naeini (Duke University)
Tadayoshi Kohno (University of Washington)

9/29/2023

Content moderation

“Historically unprecedented, concentrated control of so much speech in the hands of a few private parties”
(Thomas J., 2021)

More legitimate governance?

How?

 Oversight Board

 GIFCT
Global Internet Forum
to Counter Terrorism

We need something like IAEA

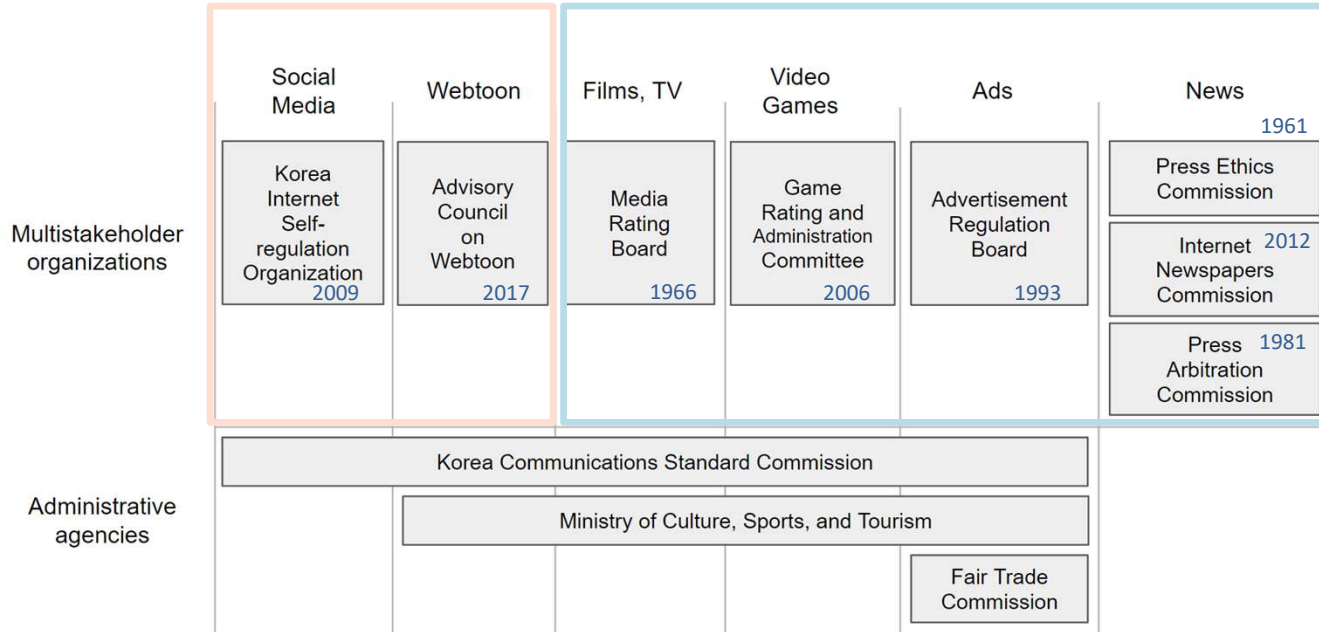

Websites ICRA	News NNC	TV/radio NAB	Film MPA	Online privacy ISRG
			Video game ESRB	OPA PLI NAI

South Korea's Content Governance

Funded by platforms

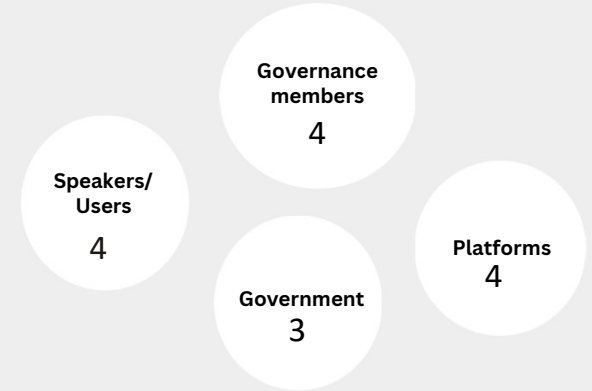

Funded by the government

Research Methods

Document analysis (~2022)
(Statutes, policy statements, transcripts)

Qualitative interviews (2022)
(15 decision-making stakeholders)

Platform-driven v. Creator-driven

User-generated content

Webtoon

Name	Internet Self-regulation Organization (KISO, 2009-)	Advisory Council on Webtoon (ACW, 2017-)
Established by	Law	Agreement with the gov't
Examining matters	Social media companies' moderation decisions (Defamation, privacy invasion)	Webtoon platforms' rating decisions
of board members	8 (Appointed by platforms)	8 (Appointed by artists association)
of employees	10	1
of complaints handled (2022)	334	27
Annual budget (2022)	$1 million/year (platforms)	$50K/year (platforms)
Compliance rate (2022)	100%	100%

Why do they persist?

Participants are acutely aware of tangible and ongoing regulatory threats.

The governance has never faced normative challenges.

Legislatures, courts, and executive branches confirm the legitimacy of multistakeholder governance through their decisions.

Participants believe that the body has demonstrated its efficacy.

“For the past 15 years, I’ve never seen KISO make an unreasonable decision. Some may argue that KISO’s presence has diminished in recent times, but that’s largely because member platforms have seamlessly integrated KISO policies into their own. Over time, we only refer a very limited number of challenging cases to KISO, such as the recent incident involving gender discriminatory slurs, which require broader deliberations.” (Platform Executive)

Operating the governing bodies does not cost much (less than $1 million/year).

The governing bodies are increasingly focused on establishing high-level, substantive policies.

*[KISO] Biography Policy (March 2021), Hate Speech Policy (April 2023), Chatbot Ethics Policy (August 2023)
[AWC] Anti-Discrimination Policy (April 2022)*

Perceived Benefits

It insulates platforms from the politically high-stakes decisions.

It safeguards creators and platforms from extremist users.

“Extreme user groups pose a genuine threat to creators, and the noises often spiral into never-ending rabbit holes. These users frequently express their emotions to the organization, which responds in a neutral and reasonable manner as a third-party arbitrator.” (Creator)

It establishes more adaptable and relevant norms based on expertise and shared values.

It accumulates collective wisdom, a case repository, and enhances platforms' decision-making.

Fundamental Challenges

Key Design Questions

Creators

- Are creators professional/full-time or casual/sporadic?
- Is there an organized creator community?
- What is the relationship dynamic between creators?

Platforms

- What is the level of competition between platforms?
- Do platforms control access to audiences and creator monetization?
- Are platforms eager to avoid government regulation?

Government

- What are the free speech traditions and laws? (strict or lax?)
- Has the government previously intervened in the industry?

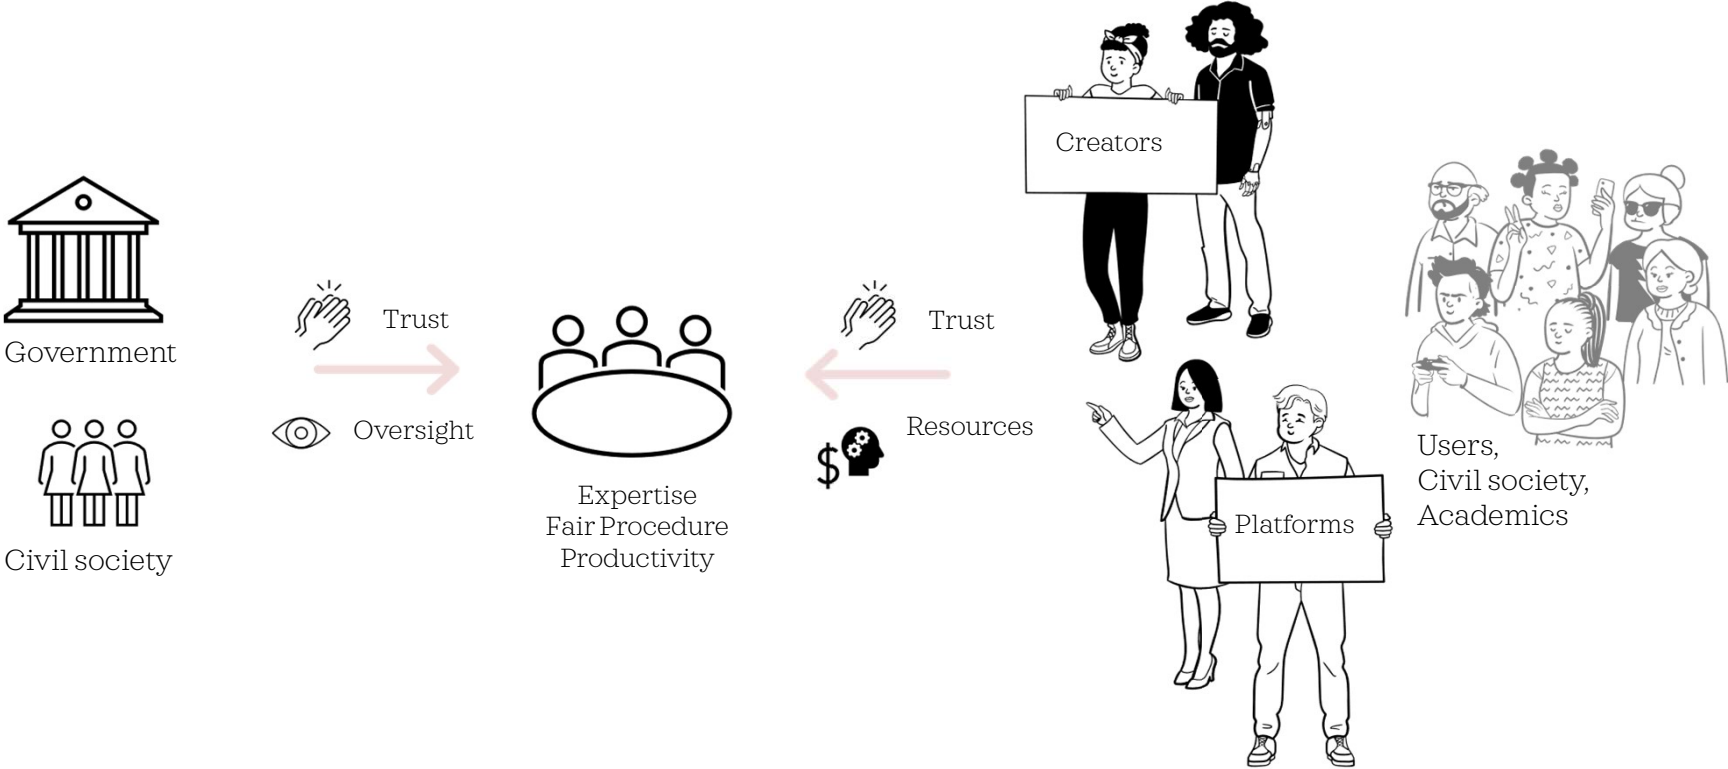

Relationship

- What are the trust levels between creators and platforms?
- Do stakeholders share common values and goals?

Enforcement

- Can gov't have a credible threat to compel governance participation?
- Can platforms impose penalties like account suspensions?
- Can creators self-police like revoking professional credentials?
- Do courts support active participation in and compliance with governance?

Establishing multistakeholder governance is difficult.
It can be sustainable with the strategic design and persistent commitments of stakeholders.

Thank you!